1. Main Navigation Bar

- The hamburger menu button design is working well — keep that.

- Instead of expanding the navigation bar itself, the hamburger should trigger a drop-down style menu. This menu should:

  - Slide or fade down smoothly.

  - Stay anchored to the top-right/left of the screen.

  - Collapse when a selection is made or the user clicks elsewhere.

- The navigation bar should be sticky

  - always visible at the top during scrolling

- Include the title of the website in the bar, aligned on the center.

2. In-Page Mini Navigation (Anchor Menu)

- Within each main content page, include a mini menu that outlines the sections of that page.

  - Acts like an anchor-based table of contents.

  - Clicking an item should scroll smoothly to that section.

  - Ideal placement: top or side of the content area, depending on your layout constraints.

3. Footer

- Include a footer on every page with consistent styling.

- Footer should contain: citation? Credit to the Wikipedia page.
